Practicing Learners and Learning Practitioners:

On becoming a User Experience Researcher in Latin America

To Be or To Become

“BE is notoriously difficult to define, because you can't say what it "is" without in effect using the word itself. But the difference between BE and BECOME is relatively easy:

- BE designates a state, something which continues unchanged through time.
- BECOME designates an event, a change of state.”

Outline:

The questions to be answered at the end of this talk

- What is the Problem?:
 - Relevance of having now full spectrum practical training on IxD/UX foundations and research
- What we did about it?:
 - Practicing Learners program & Learning Practitioners program
- What does it mean to become a UX researcher?:
 - Practices we are identifying on the phenomenon of becoming a UX researcher
- What's next for you?
 - Lessons to take back to your context

What is the problem?

The need for UX researchers in Latin America

Need for UX researchers: Ask LinkedIn

Banco Azteca

Walmart

Coppel

Need for UX researchers: You can look at the communities

“It would be nice to be UX researcher in Latin America but...”

the typical paths of training are broken

Some reasons why

- (most) Universities are not interested
- Knowledge that requires practice, is not assimilated until it is practiced
- We are not calling things by their name: diplomas, masters, certifications
- Companies ask for experience from UXers but they do not have spaces to create that experience
- And... there is a lot of informality, abuse and deception...

What we did about it?: Our programs

What did we do?

We created

- a learning scheme in practice through a UX researcher Apprentice Program
- lasting 6 months
- intense, practical, formal and free!

What did we do?

We created

- a learning scheme for practitioners through a Program of Professional Seminars in UX Research
- lasting 2/4 months
- intense, practical, formal
- and with a high cost!

How can you move from the be vs. become model when it comes to define paths for professional development?

What's next for you? What's next for us?

We will keep experimenting:

- New remote experiences – covering more countries – defining more practical connections
- More emphasis on becoming – being helpful for those who will growth outside our organization
